Trade Collection 2026
Sculptural Objects and Jewellery
Designed and hand-cast in regional Queensland

Some surfaces settle into sameness.

These never do.

Guseli Design creates sculptural objects and jewellery shaped by movement, material, and the individuality of each pour.

Hand-cast in Australia using a mineral composite, every piece carries subtle shifts in tone, veining and texture that can never be fully repeated.

Objects that feel collected rather than manufactured.

THE PRACTICE

Shaped by curiosity. Guided by material.

Guseli Design is the sculptural practice of Queensland artist and designer Kim Guseli, exploring form, material and the individuality created through casting by hand.

Working from her Fraser Coast studio, Kim develops objects and wearable forms through an evolving process of sculpting, mould-making, casting and hand-finishing. Each piece carries the marks and variations of its making.

No two pieces resolve in exactly the same way.

Designed for shelves, corners and passing light.

Designed to hold the notes, names and moments worth keeping close.

THE PHILOSOPHY

Variation is not a flaw.

It is the signature of the process.

Subtle shifts in tone, delicate veining and naturally occurring surface variation are preserved as part of each piece’s material expression.

No two pieces settle in exactly the same way.

WEARABLE FORMS

Sculptural forms designed to be worn like collected objects.

No two surfaces settle in exactly the same way.

Designed to hold the small things we return to daily.
